Burnet Middle School

Project Unify Grant - Field Day Proposal

Thanks to the Board of Education approving our Project Unify Grant, we have been able to make huge strides with our inclusion sports activities. Since the approval of the Grant, we have been working very closely with Project Unify & The Special Olympics Foundation. Burnet Middle School, Union High School and Jefferson School were all given a $3,000 grant which has allowed us to build the foundation of a program that should continue to grow every year in Union Township.

This grant allows us to work together as a school district to promote the inclusion of all students through physical education and unified sports. It provides the dollars necessary for schools to plan and implement programs in which students can work together to compete and play. The long term goal is for districts to create a lifelong plan in which they can implement teams, practices and coaches that support these Unified Events and provide the opportunity for all students to work and play together. In our second year of implementing this grant, we have expanded our resources drastically and are working hard to promote awareness of all the positive effects Project Unify has on our school district.

Respect Week Campaign –

May 13th – UHS / Burnet / Jefferson – Assembly

This assembly will be used to kick off our Disabilities Awareness Campaign. This assembly will provide guest speakers and information to all students throughout these schools. The purpose is to show the importance of accepting others. It will be used to kick off our spirit week in which we hope to spread awareness and bring the student population closer together.

Spirit Week – May 16th – May 20th

Disabilities Awareness Week

“Attitudes are the Real Disability”

Have you ever questioned whether or not you should open the door for someone ahead of you who is in a wheelchair? Or have you felt uncomfortable sitting next to someone with an apparent physical disability? These experiences are very common and ones that many of us have worked through. The need for people to be educated about people living with disabilities is ever growing in our society. At some point in all of our lives, we will be confronted with a situation where we will have to serve the needs of someone who has a disability. Sadly, stereotypes and prejudice impact the way in which we interact with and serve others who have disabilities. Discrimination and negative attitudes towards people with disabilities come from a general lack of information and misunderstanding about who these people are. More information must be provided focusing on the best practices for serving their unique needs as individuals.

In an effort to educate more people in our school district, Burnet Middle School is hosting their first ever Disabilities Awareness Week. We hope to promote awareness to our student population to help educate them about appropriate attitudes and interactions needed when serving people with disabilities.

Disabilities Awareness Week

May 16th – May 20th

Teachers:

Disabilities Awareness Week – Week of Respect

Disabilities Awareness Week is a time where people pay particular attention to children and adults with learning disabilities. During this month, we ask each of you to teach your homeroom something new about learning disabilities. You could, for example, show a small YouTube clip or share an interesting article. You could talk about personal experiences etc. We ask that all teachers and students participate in our Spirit Week to promote awareness and acceptance of all disabilities.

Please read the following to your homeroom on Friday May 13th .

Next Week Will Be Our Disabilities Awareness Week – Please participate to show your support!!!.

Monday May 16th – Camouflage Day – So We Can All Blend Together

Disabilities Awareness Week

May 16th – May 20th

Teachers:

Please read the following to your homeroom on Monday - May 16th .

Theme of the Day - Camouflage Day –

- Lets all Blend Together to Support Students With Disabilities.
- Wear your Camo Gear and blend in with your classmates around you to show your support for Students and Adults with Disabilities.
- Let's Be Strong – Army Strong, we encourage everyone to dress in Camo to show your strength as we spread awareness of disabilities this week.
- Please hand out Lion's Loot to those who participate.

Home Room:

Communication disorders are disabilities that keep a person from being able to speak or make their speech understood. This can be caused by many different disabilities or injuries. Some people with difficulty speaking may use sign language, gestures or small pictures they carry with them.

Activity 1 - Different words

If you have students in your class who speak a different language, have them stand in front of the class and say one sentence in their language. Have the class try to guess what was said.

If you have more than one student who speaks the same foreign language, have them carry on a short conversation. Then have the class try to decide what was said. Discuss how it feels to not be able to understand something. How quickly did the class give up? What are some other ways they could have tried to communicate? How is this similar to people with disabilities who can talk but are hard to understand?

Reminder: Tuesday May 17th - Jersey Day! To Show We Are Working As A Team When Accepting Disabilities

Disabilities Awareness Week

May 16th – May 20th

Teachers:

Please read the following to your homeroom on Tuesday - May 17th.

Tuesday, May 17th

- Theme of the day: Teamwork!
 - Wear your favorite sports jersey to show you're a TEAM player
 - Lion's loot will be distributed today for students who wear something team inspired and who are team players throughout the day
 - Team player examples: Be cooperative, not competitive, listen to your peers, be respectful to everyone, follow directions, and much more!

Teamwork Quotes: "The way a team plays as a whole determines its success. You may have the greatest bunch of individual stars in the world, but if they don't play together, the club won't be worth a dime." - Babe Ruth

Home Room:

Hearing impairments include everything from not being able to hear certain sounds to being totally deaf. In most cases, a hearing loss doesn't simply mean that sounds are not loud enough. It usually means that sounds are garbled or unclear. A hearing aid may make speech louder, but usually will not make speech clearer.

Activity 1 - Not being able to hear

You need: a pair of ear plugs for each student, a computer with sound, I-pod, fan or anything else that can make "white noise".

What to do:

Show students how to put in the earplugs .

Put on the "white noise". If using a TV, put it on a station with no reception and turn up the volume — loud enough to be distracting. If using a radio, set it between stations so you only hear static. If using a fan, turn it up on high. Read a long newspaper article or book passage. Read rapidly, using a soft voice, mumbling monotone, running words together and pausing in odd places. Ask students 5 questions about the content of what you read. Continue talking quickly in a soft, mumbling voice. Remove ear plugs, turn off white noise and discuss (in a normal voice) how not being able to hear clearly felt.

Reminder: Wednesday May 18th - Crazy Hair Day! – It is Ok to Look Different !!!!!

Disabilities Awareness Week

May 16th – May 20th

Teachers:

Please read the following to your homeroom on Wednesday May 18th.

Wednesday, May 18th

- Theme of the day: Crazy Hair Day
 - It is ok to look different!!!!
 - Students will receive lion's loot throughout the day for the craziest hair you see!!!!

“Too often we underestimate the power of a touch, a smile, a kind word, a listening ear, an honest compliment, or the smallest act of caring, all of which have the potential to turn a life around. “

Home Room: There are a large variety of different physical disabilities, all of which can range from a mild problem to complete immobility. Many people will have more than one disability, such as not being able to use their legs or hands.

Activity 1 - In a wheelchair (Chair)

Use a chair. Have each student take a turn sitting in the chair. Have them try different activities:

- Try Reaching for things on a book shelf
- Kicking a Ball
- Throwing a ball from a seated position
- Writing on the chalk board / smart board
- Think about what it would be like :
 - Going through the lunch line
 - Getting a book off the top shelf in the library
 - Playing a game in the gym or playground (soccer, basketball, chase, etc.)
 - Going to the bathroom
 - Going through an outside door
 - Being in a group where everyone else is standing up

Discuss how being in the wheelchair felt. What would have made things better?

Reminder: Thursday May 19th WEAR BLUE – AUTISM AWARENESS DAY!!!

Disabilities Awareness Week

May 16th – May 20th

Teachers:

Please read the following to your homeroom on Thursday May 19th .

Thursday – May 19th

Theme of the day: Wear Blue

- Hand out Lion's Loot to students who wear Blue ☺
- Today is Autism Awareness Day – Talk to Student's About Autism and help spread awareness.

Autism is a developmental disability that usually appears during the first three years of life. The cause is unknown. It affects how a person's brain works, but not all people with autism are affected the same way.

When a person has autism, they may have problems:

- letting you know what they want;
- thinking;
- understanding what other people say or want;
- ignoring sounds;
- ignoring things or people that are moving;
- ignoring lights;
- being touched;
- understanding social rules;
- showing affection;
- controlling their feelings;
- knowing how to play with other kids; and
- dealing with changes.

Autism is a "spectrum disorder." That means that not everyone with autism has all the problems. One person may have three of the problems listed while another person has only one. Some people with autism struggle to learn. Other people with autism are very smart and can do complicated math when they are 3 years old. Some people with autism have trouble being touched while others like to hug.

Many people with autism like to do things in the same order all the time and have things arranged the same way. This helps them stay calm.

Other people with autism have a very hard time ignoring noises, especially if they are upset or in a new situation. They may try to calm themselves by rocking, moaning, talking loudly or even screaming. The moaning, talking or screaming helps them drown out the other noises so they can calm down. They may also try to go under a desk or in a small, dark place where they feel safer.

Friday – May 20th – Wear Maroon To Show Spirit & Pride of Accepting Others With Disabilities

Disabilities Awareness Week

May 16th – May 20th

Teachers:

Please read the following to your homeroom on Friday May 20th.

Home Room - Vision impairments include things like being near-sighted or far-sighted that are correctable with glasses. It can also mean more serious problems like blindness or problems that are only helped a little by glasses.

Activity 1- Blindness

Home Room - You need:

A good blindfold.

A room with several occupied chairs and one or more vacant chairs. Put odd obstacles on the way to the chair, and/or face the chair in an unexpected direction. Leave the door halfway open.

What to do

Explain that you will need 2 students - a "guide" and a "blind person." You will be re-arranging the room. The guide's job is to help the blind person come into the room and go to the chair without running into anything. They can tell them how to do it and can also touch them to help guide their way.

Make sure the blindfold is on and foolproof. Send the 2 volunteers into the hall and re-arrange the room. The vacant chair should not be too easy to get to.

Hint: Most "guides" grab the blind person and push them around. This usually results in the "blind" person running into things. "Guides" usually don't describe the path, and say "look out" instead of "stop" at major obstacles. When the chair is reached, "guides" usually spin the "blind" person around and push them into the seat, then leaves without explanation.

Thank you for your support in Disabilities Awareness Week!!!
