1	Continue to develop an understanding of Google Docs, Chromebooks and their use in the classroom.	All teaching staff and students	During our initial introduction to Google Docs, we found our staff and students currently have different levels of technological knowledge. Not Applicable (2)

Not

Students need to have tools in order to encourage writing in the various genres.

How to teach mini lessons

When the lesson was modeled, it was the most useful. When we were observed there was no real feedback to guide us.

The resources provided were amazing. I use them during every writing lesson.

Not at this time

The mini-lessons

all components of Writers Workshop

Using mentor texts to help present and build upon lessons to be used with the students.

The mini lesson concept

The modeling of the process of each writing genre.

Not Applicable

Demo lessons

Instruction of mini-lessons

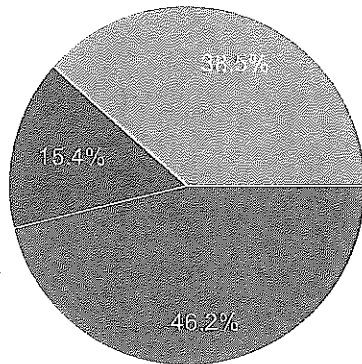

n/a

Virtual Faculty Meetings and PD's for Team Building/Morale

Having meetings where we are shown visually how use different online programs properly such as: My Learning Plan instead of written directions to follow and people being confused. Also, there should be better systems for making schedules for teachers for specials and extras such as Spanish, Health, iReady, and Library. The random walking around and filling in boxes is ridiculous and unfair especially if you are left with nothing that works with your schedule.

how to keep class moving in a positive way when your class has sited iep students and/or students who are testing waters in a new class/or district or just because no iep at this time.

Different ways to enhance parent communication

I think it would be beneficial to give teachers time to collaborate more and to also work on Unit Lesson Plans, or other assignments that require deadlines and data.

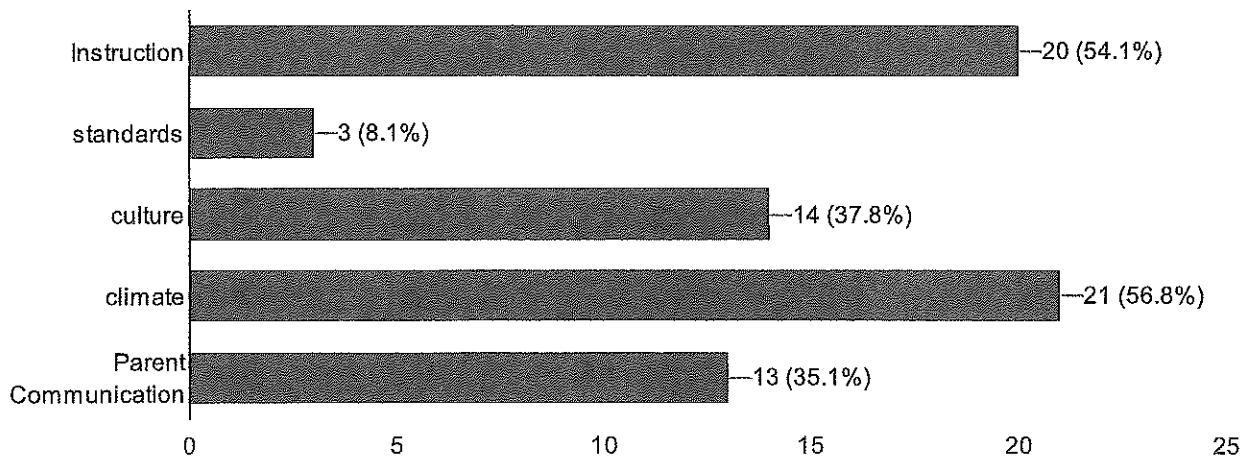

Whole brain learning, the leader in me, Ways to differentiate, Problem /Project learning, Building effective centers,

Just a suggestion: in the beginning of the school year we should have the following: 1. student organizational and studying skills 2. have a one stop center for just one week for parents to complete their child's lunch application 3. student can have an after school program for reading, math and perhaps homework
